

Personal Statement on Canon 21.

The commandments Jesus said were the greatest were to love God and to love one another. In his life on earth he reached out in love to people of all kinds. Why do we have the arrogance to decide that those whose gender is not conventional should be denied the happiness of the close relationship of marriage? All those couples who truly love one another are spiritually married. They should not be denied the blessing of our church.

Dorothy Lancaster,
Retired priest of the Diocese